DEFEAT OF WOOL BILL BY THE SENATE IS PREDICTED

President Informed That Regular and Insurgent Republicans Will Line up and Kill House Bill—Democrats Will Stand by Measure, However.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 26.—No wool bill will pass this session of Congress was the information taken to the White House today by regular and stand-patter scouts. The scouts of the Senate have been over the field and the way they have given it to the President is that the Democratic wool bill will be defeated by regular and insurgent Republicans tomorrow. The LaFollette bill will be voted upon first and it will be given a solar plexus blow.

Although the Democratic caucus was without definite result many Senators declared today that there was evidently an overwhelming sentiment that the Democrats would stick to the House bill faithfully. Senator Martin forced an issue by presenting to caucus a resolution declaring the Democrats should fight to the end for the House bill.

JUSTICE CLARK HONORED BY U. S. SENATE

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, July 26.—Chief Justice Walter Clark, of the North Carolina Supreme court, who is in the race for the United States Senate to succeed Senator Simmons, has gone to Stanley, Gaston county, to deliver an address at the twenty-seventh annual Masonic gathering there. Friends of the chief justice are much gratified at the action of the United States Senate some days ago in ordering that the noted speech of Judge Clark delivered in Philadelphia on the constitution of the United States be printed as a public document for the use of the Congress. They boast that this is the second time that a compliment of this sort has been paid to the chief justice, the former one being when the Senate ordered the printing of Clark's speech on the Telegraph an Essential Part of the United States Postoffice Department. This was eighteen years ago.

HOUSE

Democrats of the Opinion That Congress Will Adjourn Aug. 15

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 26.—The exchange of views at yesterday's caucus of the House Democrats, at which the Underwood cotton bill was unanimously endorsed, was that unless the unexpected happens Congress will adjourn by August 15. Congressman Webb, of North Carolina, offered a resolution postponing action on the cotton bill until the Ways and Means committee had recommended a reduction on the tariff on sugar, iron, meats and dyes. While this resolution was defeated no definite action was taken.

Dr. Mary Walker Has Changed Her Style of Garb Since Civil War

DR. MARY WALKER, as will be seen by the above pictures, has changed her style of garb materially since her early womanhood, though she has always been an advocate of dress reform for women. For the last quarter of a century Dr. Walker, whose home is in Oswego, N. Y., has worn men's garb, her frock coat and trousers being cut exactly as a tailor cuts those garments for a man. The picture on the left shows her as she has appeared in recent years. The other picture was made during the civil war and shows Dr. Walker in her uniform as an army nurse in the stirring days of the civil war, which was a combination of woman's and man's raiment. The skirt, which reached to the knees, was attached to the waist so the weight was borne by the shoulders. Bloomers were worn underneath the blouse and skirt. Dr. Walker for many years had much trouble because of her insistence on wearing men's clothes, but in recent years she has not been molested. She draws a pension of $50 a month, allowed her by special act of congress.

CHAIN

Of Circumstantial Evidence In Beattie Murder Case Grows Stronger.

Special to Telegram.

Richmond, Va., July 26.—New links in the chain of circumstantial evidence were forged today in the Beattie murder case. The slight wound which Henry Clay Beattie bears on his nose and which he says he received in the struggle with the unknown man who shot Mrs. Beattie, may prove to be the strongest link against the prisoner. It was learned that Beattie, who is an enthusiastic hunter, always fired a gun from his right shoulder, taking aim with his left eye, and that he has often had his nose bruised in the same way by the recoil when the gun was discharged.

It is now claimed by detectives that Mrs. Henry Clay Beattie's condition, prior to the murder had been such that a physician had been called in. It is believed that this condition resulted from her discovery of the fact that Beattie was not true to her. On the night previous to the murder she and Beattie quarrelled and the elder Mr. Beattie told his son that he should not be so harsh to his wife, that he would look after his daughter-in-law.

Two sets of detectives are hard at work on the case. Beulah Binford and Paul Beattie were examined by state detectives today. Mrs. Trout, the woman who adopted the Beattie child, stated today that when Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., learned of the child's death he said "This is the grandest thing that has ever happened."

Beulah Binford's Diary.
Richmond, Va., July 26.—"I am going to write a little love note every night in this little book for my darling Henry." With these words written in a childing manner Beulah Binford began the diary which has come into the hands of the prosecution and upon which the state will base its fight to send Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., to the gallows for the murder of his wife. The diary was begun on May 18, the first note being as follows: "My darling Henry—Just a line to you to let you

KENYON

Testifies Before House Committee Investigating the U. S. Steel Trust.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 26.—Senator Kenyon, of Iowa, former assistant attorney general, and Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, testified before the House steel committee today. Mr. Kenyon identified a report of Mr. Townsend's investigation of the International Harvester Company, while he was connected with the department of justice. He said he recalled that investigation, but that he did not want to testify as it might embarrass the government. Mr. Wickersham was subpoenaed to identify the report.

Chairman Stanley sprung a sensation by pointing out a clause in the Townsend report that the government recommendation had been made that the harvester trust should be prosecuted criminally upon the evidence that the steel trust had given the harvester company a rebate of $3 per ton on steel. Commissioner of Corporations Smith said he did not recall any instructions from the President to investigate. The charges in the Townsend report were submitted to former Attorney General Bonaparte but no action had been taken.

Mr. Stanley announced that a subpoena had been issued for Mr. Bonaparte, who is in Canada, and an effort will be made to ascertain why there were no prosecutions of the harvester company. He said he would also show close connection between the steel corporation and the harvester company. Several men being directors in each of the two companies.

Another Veteran Dies.

Harrisonburg, Va., July 26.—M. Linden, aged 72, ex-mayor, teacher and Confederate soldier, died today in Mount Crawford. He leaves a wife and four daughters.

"I know I still love you with all my heart." These are notes for each day until the night of the murder, July 18. The date is down on the page, but there is nothing written. This fact in itself is suspicious.

GOVERNOR KITCHIN'S CONTROVERSY BRINGS CANDIDACY TO FORE

Friends Believe He Has Gained Strength Since Fight Started With News and Observer and Others—All the Senatorial Candidates Are Active.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, July 26.—North Carolina's senatorial fight that is already well on, involving the seat of United States Senator F. M. Simmons, whose successor is to be chosen in 1912 has waxed decidedly more acute since the controversy arose between Editor Josephus Daniels, who is Democratic national committee man, and Governor Kitchin involving the record of the Governor in "trust-busting." The charge by Editor Daniels that "words words, words have been the only missiles the Governor has thrown at the trust," and the reply by Governor Kitchin that his campaign denunciations of trusts, his inaugural utterances and his messages to the legislature urging more stringent anti-trust laws are all in harmony and that he did all a governor could do under the constitution to get through the legislature thoroughly effective statutes have caused a distinct lining up throughout the State that is causing new estimates of the situation.

It has had the effect of bringing Governor Kitchin's candidacy into the lime-light and many are asserting that just at this time he has thirty or forty per cent more following than any other candidate in the field. However, others take the view that the apparent decided ascendancy of the Kitchin following is due to the special prominence of this Daniels-Kitchin contest and that in reality the other three candidates—Senator Simmons, ex-Governor Aycock and Chief Justice Clark are holding their normal strength and one and another of them making gains.

Chief Justice Clark is keeping up a steady lick in campaigning through sending to Democrats in every section of the State his notable platform and his noted speeches "The Gospel of Progress" and "Some Defects in the Constitution of the United States." Also copies of significant opinions that he has delivered in the supreme court. These are having their effect and his friends declare that he is making good headway.

Senator Simmons and his private secretary, Mr. Watts, who is recognized as a resourceful political lieutenant for the senator, are both back in the State now and are to get into the conflict at this end of the line after pushing their campaign work for some time past from the Washington end.

Ex-Gov. Aycock is still leaving his campaigning largely with his friends. The Goldsboro bureau is issuing folders and other matter tending to show that wide-spread welcome that was accorded him as a candidate. The insinuations that have been spread around that his health or any other condition makes it undesirable for him to undertake the duties of the senatorship are being refuted. His health is very greatly improved.

Greensboro's handsome Y. M. C. A., located at the corner of Greene and Sycamore streets only one block removed from the heart of the city, upon which the work of construction has been pushed rapidly for several months, now assumes an appearance from the outside bordering close upon the finished product, one too that will be a constant source of pride and pleasure for the men and boys of the city and vicinity. The plastering of the lobbies and dormitories in the inside is now nearly accomplished and though some parts of the wood finishing has been unavoidably delayed by the destruction of prepared lumber such as window sashes in the burning of the Guilford Lumber Company's plant, these are now being supplied and the building will undoubtedly be officially taken charge of by the directors and secretary of the institution by September 1.

On Tuesday the committee on furnishings, composed of A. B. High, J. J. Stone, W. C. A. Hammell and R. C. Hood, held the final discussion concerning the contract and after much consideration of the matter, the bid entered by the Huntley-Stockton-Hill Company, of this city, was selected over those of the five competitors. This contract applies only to the heavy furnishings of the dormitories, offices and the lobbies. The committee will complete the task of selecting and awarding the contracts for the entire stock of furniture within the next ten days. As soon as the furniture can be secured the large show window of the Huntley-Stockton-Hill store will be furnished in the same style that will be used in the dormitories of the Y. M. C. A. The rooms as soon as furnished will be placed open for rental when their appearance can be seen by prospective lodgers.

The contract just awarded includes the carpets, rugs and office furniture and the furnishings for the dormitories and lobby. The lobby will be furnished with leather goods, with oak finish. Each of the dormitory rooms will contain the following pieces of furniture: A white enameled iron bed, fitted with National Wilt-edge spring and A1 felt mattress; an arm rocker, a straight chair, a combination desk and library table, a large chiffonier and two rugs.

Over three competitive bids the contract for the gymnasium apparatus was awarded to Fred Medart, of St. Louis, Mo. Secretary Martin is very enthusiastic over the excellent quality of the supplies secured for the gymnasium. They are made of the highest grade of material, of superior workmanship, and have many decided advantages and small features that make them best for use and operation and which are not found in other goods. Mr. Martin stated that they would be beyond comparison.

The progress made can be noted in a general way by mention of the facts that the first coat of plastering has been laid on over the entire building and the second has been almost completed. The gymnasium floor was placed yesterday and the heavy cement base for the swimming pool and adjoining room has been placed, the only addition necessary to the final completion of the pool being the tile floor, which is a feature that will make the pool a most healthful and desirable place for bathing.

THE OBSERVER'S "INTERURBAN EDITION."

Yesterday was issued the "Interurban Edition" of the Charlotte Observer, containing eighty-eight special pages in addition to the regular issue for the day. This splendid edition of one of North Carolina's two leading newspapers is, as the Observer says, to give the world a glance at the Piedmont country of the Carolinas along the line of the proposed interurban road from Greenwood, S. C., to Durham, N. C., a distance of three hundred miles. This is done by telling the story of the progress of all the cities and towns of importance along the line of the proposed road, and is outlined by the Observer as follows:

"The story begins with Greenwood county, S. C., and, following the line of the proposed electric system, touches Abbeville, Anderson, Greenville, Spartanburg, Cherokee and York counties in South Carolina. Entering North Carolina, the story begins with Gaston county and continues through Mecklenburg, Cabarrus, Rowan, Davidson, Guilford, Alamance and Orange, ending with Durham. The following towns are covered, starting at Greenwood, S. C., Hodges, Donalds, Honea Path, Belton, Anderson, Walhalla, Williamston, Pelzer, Piedmont, Greenville, Greens, Spartanburg, Gaffney, Blackburg, Kings Mountain, Gastonia, Mount Holly, Charlotte, China Grove, Concord, Salisbury, Thomasville, Lexington, High Point, Greensboro, Burlington, Graham and Durham.

"The towns and cities located in the section covered by this running story are great and growing greater, and it is the purpose of The Observer to tell something of them. The Observer sent through this territory its own representatives and the readers of the Interurban Edition will have before them the plain tale of what was seen by these men from the shop.

"It is a wonderful section and richly deserves the effort given it during these months. Traveling over these three hundred miles of territory one is seldom without vision of the smoke from a factory stack, notwithstanding the fact that a generation ago this territory was like waste and wilderness because of the ravages of war. There are now more mills and factories along the line from Greenwood through Charlotte to Durham than there are miles of railroad. There are thousands and thousands of fertile acres waiting for men to cultivate them and bring forth as results of labor cotton, corn and cattle."

The "Interurban Edition" of the Observer is made attractive with scores of pictures of industries, buildings, residences and scenes in the towns and cities mentioned above, and the fine impression made by the illustrations will be deepened by the accompanying articles in which the resources, industries, and general development of this section are thoroughly covered.

As one of the cities of first importance on the interurban, Greensboro is given a prominent place in this edition of the Observer. High Point also comes in for a large share of space. The wide circulution which will be given this issue of the Observer will secure a large amount of valuable advertising for the Guilford cities; and as both have the resources, the business, the industries and the general prosperity necessary in "showing" anybody who may be interested or who may come this way, the results should tell in the movement which both cities are making for growth and development.

So much matter is contained in the "Interurban Edition" that it is impossible to give even a summary of its contents in these columns, but the following information in brief about the trolley line and the Southern Power Company will be of interest for present and future reference. The Observer in this connection says:

"The interurban trolley line, when completed will stretch from Greenwood, S. C., to Durham, N. C., a distance of 300 miles, joining the principal cities and towns of the Piedmont Section of the Carolinas.

"The electric current for this system will be derived from four waterpower plants of the Southern Power Company on the Catawba river, which develop a capacity of 134,000-horsepower.

"Forty-five cities and towns in North and South Carolina are now securing light and power from these plants.

"Over 150 cotton mills, embracing 2,000,000 spindles and 43,000 looms are operated by the same power.

"Over 1,300 miles of high tension circuit wire are required to carry this power through the Carolinas.

"It will be the first electric railroad in America to use 1,500-volts direct current. Existing systems use 600 voltage.

"The Southern Power Company, the parent corporation, was organized in 1905. It now has a capitalization of $11,000,000 and embodies twenty-three auxiliary companies."

PROHIBITION SENTIMENT IS STRONG IN TEXAS.

Prohibition was defeated in Texas by a very narrow margin, the majority claimed against the measure representing about one per cent. of the vote cast. It is said that 450,000 votes were polled, and with this fact in view it can be readily noted that a majority of five or six thousand in favor of the anti-prohibitionists is very small.

It must be taken into account, also, that what Texas voted on was not plain State-wide prohibition but a prohibition amendment to the State's constitution, forever prohibiting the manufacture and sale of liquors in the commonwealth. There will be found in every State some men who are willing to give prohibition a trial under a law which may be repealed at a subsequent session of the Legislature, who are not willing to vote to write a prohibition amendment in the constitution, which is a step most difficult to retract when once it had been made. Doubtless many Texas voters were actuated by this view in their voting and voted against the amendment.

In view of these facts, it is clear that prohibition sentiment in Texas is very strong; and as the prohibitionists never quit a fight, it is probable that they will capture Texas before many years have passed.

The Wilmington Dispatch thinks that the worst thing known about Lorimer is that Hines is his friend.

John D. Rockefeller declares he would be a poor man today if it had not been for the advice of his wife, John D. ought not to blame it on his wife. The public will hold him responsible, no matter what he says about it.

"Ask for the 'Made In Greenville' sign on everything you buy," advises the Piedmont. The people down there will buy very little except cotton goods if they confine their purchases to articles made in Greenville.

New York Press says that Salt Lake City is the country's cleanest city. That is probably the result of having a sufficient number of wives in each home to do the house work without having to depend upon servants.

The Standard Oil Company is to be divided into thirty-five Standard Oil Companies. Work for trust "busters" is multiplying, and in the face of this fact such eminent trust swatters as Governor Kitchen are quitting the job.

Congressman Oscar W. Underwood is standing on the Democratic platform and doing all in his power to fulfill platform promises. The great majority of his fellow Democratic Congressmen and, also, the Democratic Senators are doing likewise. It is evident that the party is making a record at the extra session which will entitle it to the confidence of the people in 1912.

The woman in the Beattie case in Richmond had several offers of marriage forwarded to the jail in which she is confined, it is said. Soon we may expect to hear that some of the country's crazy women are sending flowers to Beattie. The insane asylums of the country would have to be doubled in size if all the lunatics were incarcerated and homes for the feeble minded would overflow if all the fools could be rounded up.

The Contempt Case Against Elder Hardy.

Since the contempt case against Elder L. H. Hardy is to go to the higher courts for settlement, all good citizens are interested in having the rights of citizens in the matter of discussing court decisions or the administration of justice in general, clearly marked and defined. It has been the impression all along that citizens had a right to express their opinion of either of the three departments of government, legislative, executive and judicial. Acting upon this theory, citizens have criticized the Legislature, the Governor and judges of both the Superior and Supreme courts, without being called to account. Perhaps their criticism has not always been just, but freedom of speech is necessary in a free government.

Life is an opportunity for service; not as little as we can, but as much as we can.

There can be a good deal of cheer through life's journey if it is made with a contented heart.

A good heart is like the sun, for it shines bright and never changes, but keeps its course truly.

One of the most important things in life is not where we stand, but in what direction we are moving.

Cheerfulness is like money well expended in charity—the more we dispense of it the greater our possessions.

The success of the new universities in the future will depend upon whether they can infuse the scientific spirit into the ordinary life.

There is an idea about that heaven means siting on clouds and singing hymns; personally, I should be tired of that sort of thing in a week.

It is not the actual fighting that tries a man's nerves, so much as the waiting and being ordered about between engagements.

The pendulum of civilization has swung through ages westward from the east, and now it has reached the end of its beat and is starting on its way back.

ARE YOU TIRED OF LOVE?

Every day we are told of things that are difficult to believe, until now many of us must be in a position that we are ready to swallow almost anything. But capacity to gorge astounding statement has its limits, and the last one that has come my way has made me hesitate, at any rate, until I have put the matter to you, and given you time to send me some of your opinions.

A girl hates to be kept in the dark about anything and has no sympathy for a person who edges round a subject without coming to the point. What is more annoying, for instance, than a man who seems on the verge of proposing and then, after the girl has either decided to accept him or to be a sister to him, discourses on the prospects of fine weather? There are, I believe, lots of these sort of people about, but as I do not wish to be taken for one of them I will not beat about the bush.

I read the other day that a very well-known theatrical manager had come to the conclusion that people were tired of love stories, and wanted something new. By people he meant, of course, your sex, because it is you, ladies, who make or mar a play, just as you do a novel, and a great many other things in life.

I cannot believe this statement. I do not believe that you are tired of love stories in either novels or plays or in real life. What I believe is that this theatrical manager is tired of arranging love plays.

Are you girls tired of love? I cannot bring myself to believe that such is the case. But that love is played out is apparently the contention of the theatrical manager to whom allusion is made. I cannot help feeling that you still retain your interest in love and all the many problems that result from affairs of the heart. Do not allow yourselves to become too prosaic, girls. In these eminently practical times it will do you no harm to allow sentiment to have some sway.

But She Accepted Him.

"Gertrude," sighed the young man, flinging himself at her feet. "I love you passionately madly; I would go to the end of the world with you."

"That is impossible," replied the precise girl. "You could not go to the end of the world with me. The world is round, like a ball, slightly flattened at the poles. You surely learned that at school?"

"Of course I did, Gertrude, but if you only knew the aching void where my heart—"

"There is no such thing as a void, Adolph. Nature abhors a vacuum. But admitting there could be a void, how could the void you speak of be a void if there were an ache in it?"

"I mean that I could not exist without you. If you were at the North Pole or in Australia, I would fly to you, I—"

"Nonsense, Adolph, no aviator living could fly such a distance, you know that well enough."

"Well, anyway, I've got an income of $5,000 a year. I want you to marry me. Will you be my wife?"

"Of course, Adolph, if you put it like that, I must say Yes!"

Sense in Short Sentences

Talk and think happiness. The world is sad enough without your woe. Life is an opportunity for service; not as little as we can, but as much as we can.

Defend With What You Have

The North Carolina Public Service Company, of Greensboro, appears from afar to be one big corporation with a heart. This concern has come forward and offered to supply free to any needy sick person in its city electric fans and electric service for the same during hot weather months. It has made the offer in broad manner, writing a letter to such effect to the physicians of Greensboro, and will even run wires for the service free of charge. We agree with The Wilmington Dispatch that this is "a thoughtful, generous Christian act."—Charlotte Chronicle.

MATRIMONIAL MASCOTS

"Hanging and wooing goes by destiny."—Shakespeare.

The bride who finds on her dress a spider may consider herself blessed.

The bride who dreams of fairies the night before her marriage will be thrice blessed.

If the bridegroom carries a miniature horseshoe in his pocket he will always have good luck.

Ship marriages are considered anything but lucky. Get married on land or don't get married at all.

No bride or groom should be given a telegram while on the way to church. It is a sign of evil.

If the wedding ring is dropped during the ceremony the bride may well wish herself unborn, for she will always have ill-luck.

Kiss the bride after a ceremony, and before the newly made husband has a chance to do so, and you will have excellent luck throughout the year.

Maidens eager to wed should give dish-water heated to the boiling point a wide berth. It means that they will not marry for a long time if they attempt to cleanse dishes in water so hot.

Should the bride perchance see a coffin while being driven to the railway station prior to departing upon her honeymoon she should order the driver to turn back and start over again, or she will meet with bad luck.

The Wiggler.

"Ferdinand, what is the matter?" cried the young wife to her husband, who seemed to be trying to tie himself into a knot.

There was no reply save a few gurgles, as the unhappy man bent his body backward until his face grew red.

"Let me share your trouble, Ferdinand," pleaded the young wife.

Still the man bent his body over, now twisting one way, now another.

"Tell me. What is it?" begged his wife.

"It's only a collar stud that has slipped down my back," growled the man, and once more proceeded to stand on his head.

Honest Medicines Versus Fakes.

President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the Pure Food and Drugs law in its relation to Prepared Medicines, does not refer to such standard medicines as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and Foley's Kidney Pills, both of which are true medicines carefully compounded of ingredients whose medicinal qualities are recognized by the medical profession itself as the best known remedial agents for the diseases they are intended to counteract.

For over three decades Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been a standard remedy for coughs, colds and affections of the throat, chest and lungs for children and for grown persons, and it retains today its pre-eminence above all other preparations of its kind. Foley Kidney Pills are equally effective and meritorious. Howard Gardner.

Kill More Than Wild Beasts.

The number of people killed yearly by wild beasts don't approach the vast number killed by disease germs. They're in air, water, dust, even food. But grand protection is afforded by Electric Bitters, which destroy and expel these deadly disease germs from the system.

That's why chills, fever and ague, all malarial and many blood diseases yield promptly to this wonderful blood purifier. Try them, and enjoy the glorious health and new strength they'll give you. Money back, if not satisfied. Only 50c. at Fariss Klutz Drug Co.

Your wife never sings any more. Did she lose her voice?"

"No, she found her senses."—Toledo Blade.

Foley Kidney Pills are composed of ingredients specially selected for their corrective, healing, tonic, and stimulating effect upon the kidneys, bladder and urinary passages. They are antiseptic, antilithic and a uric acid solvent. Howard Gardner.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Greensboro Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

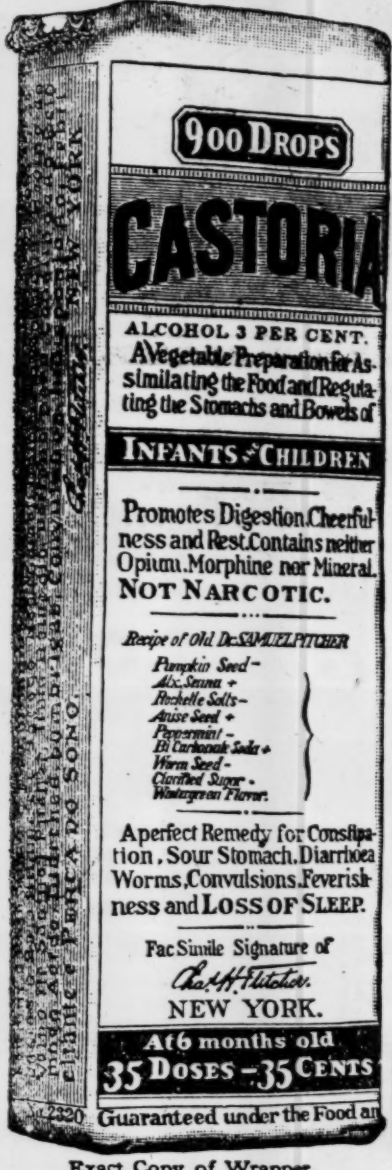

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, gravel and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills help sick kidneys. Here is proof in the statement of a nearby resident.

J. A. Harder, Davis St., Burlington, N. C., says: "I was troubled a great deal by backache and dull pains through my loins and sides. I often noticed that the kidney secretions were unnatural and passed entirely too frequently. Upon a friend's advice, I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box. I had used them but a short time before my kidneys were restored to their normal condition. I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

CONDITIONS IN MEXICO VIEWED BY CITIZEN

Tells Why Insurrectos are Still on War Path—Mexicans are Men With Minds of Children—Iron Hand of Man Like Diaz Needed to Control Them.

By VICTOR ELLIOTT.
Washington, July 26.—Reports are daily printed that bands of former revolutionary soldiers are pillaging and destroying property in Mexico, despite the fact that peace has been officially declared. In an interview secured from one of the wealthiest land owners in Mexico, now on a visit to Washington, the true side of the Mexican trouble was told. His name he requested not to be mentioned, as he said, should the story come to the ears of officials in Mexico, "much might be made of it."

In starting his interesting story, this admirer of former President Diaz, now in exile in Spain, declared that the fighting in Mexico had not yet stopped, notwithstanding the fact that peace had been declared. Furthermore, he said Francisco Madero, Dictator of Mexico, has not the power to crush the warlike tendencies of the people who have been soldiers in the revolutionary army. The insurrecto army, he continued, was nothing more than a mob, an unorganized, undisciplined set of men with a taste of glory of victory, without much of the horrors of war. They have had no power before, because they were peons of the large property owners, he said, "while in the revolution they were given arms and freedom, the power to take what they wished, they rode and shot and were victors because the federal troops would not fight, they conquered easily and they are not willing to lay down their arms and return to peaceful pursuits."

"They see only in the return of peace," he said, "the resumption of labor in the mines, on the railroads, or on the haciendas at a small wage, much hard work and low wages, and this has not the glamor of clanking spurs, good horses and fine saddles—stolen from former employers—and the right to take what they wished without asking permission or making payment. They are not able as yet to see that such conditions cannot long continue. Children in intellect, the majority of them think only of the present."

"The insurrectos no longer have the old federal enemy to fight, for the federal army is now the army of Francisco T. Madero, whose name forms the rallying cry of the revolution. Madero forced Diaz to step out of the presidency, and, when de la Barra came in as successor to Diaz, Madero dictated the cabinet and has continued to dictate policies. The result is that the insurrectos have the government they fought for, conducted by the man whom they fought to put in office, but the war did not last long enough; it was not severe enough; they did not have enough hardships to make them tire of it, and the result is that they refused to lay down their arms."

"To the south of Mexico City the insurrectos could no longer find uniformed federals to fire upon, and only this week the discontented branch of the former Madero army fired on another branch of the Madero army. There has been continuous fighting in that neighborhood since the peace was signed at Juarez."

"Throughout the State of Chihuahua, practically the same condition exists. Large bands of armed men refuse to give up their arms. They argue that Madero has not yet put into effect any of the reforms they fought for and they intend to keep their arms until they see what Madero intends to do. They lay particular stress on the fact that he has not yet divided the large estates into small farms and distributed them to his men."

"Four or five months ago, the soldiers in the fields selected Abram Gonzales for Governor of Chihuahua, and Madero appointed him to serve until there could be an election. At that time Pascual Orozco was their general. Now that there is no longer any need for a general, these men want Orozco for governor, and there is already much bitter feeling."

"Gonzales is a man of business affairs, who sacrificed all he had to join the revolutionists. He speaks English well and was educated in the United States. Orozco is a popular idol. He was formerly a teamster, a man scarcely able to read or write his name, yet Chihuahua is a state of vast business enterprise, with millions of Americans and English investments."

"An incident of the Mexican nature is best illustrated by the following: Recently the garrison at Cananea rebelled against the civil authorities, opened the prison, released the prisoners, and then relented of their misdeeds. The civil authorities and the garrison were Maderists. So it is in all parts of Mexico, a nation of men, but boys in intellect."

"All Mexicans, however, are not of this calibre, but the great mass of the people are uneducated and belong to the type that makes up the insurrecto army, unable to read, possessing no wealth, wishing for that which is gaudy and attractive and tiring soon of everything but excitement."

"The great majority of the people in the government are unfitted for, or incompetent to conduct a republican government, such as you have in this country. This is recognized by all who know Mexico. Diaz held Mexico up to the world as a nation of peace, because he was able to hold these men in check. They discovered that his terrible army was but a plaything, and that it was easy to defeat. They were told that the wealth would be stripped from the men who have been their masters, and that it would be given to them. They want it. They are waiting for it, and when they get it they will flatter it away and want something else."

"You, in these United States know very little concerning Mexico and its questions. The people here are different from the Mexicans as the people of Europe are diversified. What the end will be for Mexico is hard to be foreseen, but in the opinion of many, Mexico will only succeed under arbitrary rule, never under a republican form of government."

Maple Pudding is Delightful Summer Dish—Fruit Foam, Macaroon Pudding, Lemon Pudding and Rice Pudding Easily Made.

Maple Pudding.—One cup of milk, three-quarters cup of maple syrup, one cup of sugar, one egg, one-half box gelatin, one pint of whipped cream, one dozen macaroons, one cup of nuts. Scald milk, sugar, and maple syrup, beat egg and add the above to it; set on the stove until it thickens, add gelatin which has been previously dissolved and let cool. Whip the pint of cream and add nuts and macaroons; add this to the first part and put in a mold. Cut in slices and serve with whipped cream. This serves sixteen.

Fruit Foam.—One-half box gelatin, one-half cupful of water, two and one-half cups of fruit juice, three eggs. Soak gelatin in cold water until dissolved, heat fruit juice (strawberry, raspberry, currant, or grapes), pour over gelatin, sweeten to taste, stir all together, and strain and cool. Beat whites of eggs stiff, beat into the jelly until it is a solid foam, pour into a wet mold, and serve with whipped cream. Prepare day before using.

Macaroon Pudding.—Beat the yolks of four eggs with one cup sugar and two teaspoonfuls of gelatin. Boil one pint of sweet milk, pour over the eggs and return to double boiler until it thickens, then add the four beaten whites. Pour into a mold into which has been placed one dozen crushed macaroons. Serve ice cold with whipped cream.

Lemon Pudding.—Scald one pint of milk, add a large cup of bread crumbs and one tablespoon of butter. Let boil up once and set aside to cool. When cool stir into the milk the beaten yolks of three eggs, one-half cup of sugar and the grated rind of one lemon. Bake twenty minutes. Beat the whites of the three eggs, and one-half cup sugar and the juice of the lemon. Spread over the top of the pudding and brown.

A Pudding Help.—All set puddings will be found to have a much more delicate flavor if the pudding dish is placed in a pan of water in the oven to bake.

Rice Pudding.—Wash one cup rice thoroughly. Drop it in one quart boiling water. Let boil twenty minutes. Take two cups cooked rice, six tablespoonfuls sugar, two cups milk, one teaspoonful butter, one-half teaspoonful salt, two eggs well beaten. Season with nutmeg and bake in cups placed in pan of water. Serve with sweetened cream seasoned with nutmeg.

Fruit Chop Suey.—Crush one quart of strawberries, place in dishes, ready to serve, which have been lined with crisp lettuce leaves, garnish berries with small cubes of oranges, beat white of one egg to a stiff froth, sweeten to taste, drop on center of fruit, place a ripe berry in this, add sliced bananas, and serve. This will serve six persons, and prove not only a palatable dish but also an attractive and economical dessert.

An excellent way of cleaning lamp chimneys is to hold the glass over the spout of a kettle of boiling water until it becomes well steamed, then polish with a clean dry cloth, and the glass will be beautifully bright.

When making boiled puddings of any kind try putting a piece of greased paper over the top before the cloth is put on. This renders the cloth much easier to wash, and keeps the pudding nice and firm.

When steel knives are not in constant use always wrap them in tissue paper and lay them away. This quite prevents them from rusting, and so saves the bother of cleaning them when they are required again.

Ground rice is excellent for cleaning white cloth. It should be applied with a piece of clean white flannel, left for two or three hours, and then well brushed and shaken.

The stalks may be very quickly removed from currants by well flouring the hands and rubbing the currants as hard as possible between them. This takes much less time than picking them separately, and is quite as effective.

The following mixture is excellent for removing scratches from furniture. Mix equal parts of linseed oil and turpentine, dip a flannel into it, and rub it well into the scratched parts. Polish with a soft duster, and you will find that the scratches will be almost invisible.

French Strawberry Pudding. Dip enough macaroons in wine to line a buttered pudding dish; cover with sweetened ripe strawberries. Beat the yolks of four eggs with three tablespoonfuls of sugar and one teaspoonful of strawberry extract; pour over the strawberries; put in a moderate oven to bake. Beat the whites of eggs to a stiff froth with two tablespoonfuls of sugar; put on the top of the pudding and let brown in the oven. Serve cold.

EARNINGS OF U. S. STEEL.

Quarterly Statement is Quite Up to Expectations.

New York, July 26.—The quarterly statement of the United States Steel Corporation for the three months ending June 30 last, issued today, gives earnings for that period of $28,108,520 and net earnings of $21,839,840. These figures compare with $23,519,203 and $20,001,817 net for the previous quarter, and $40,170,960 and $33,880,755 net for the corresponding quarter for 1910.

The statement as a whole was quite up to expectations and was favorably regarded by those who have followed the course of the industry during the current year. The earnings for May were slightly in excess April, while June's output was much smaller than the other two months.

On the basis of today's returns earnings of the corporation for the first six months of the year were $31,627,723, as against $77,787,836 for the same period last year.

The surplus net income for the last quarter amounts to $1,869,177, which compares with $31,155 for the previous quarter, while that same item at the end of June last year amounted to $13,910,093.

The regular quarterly dividends of 1 3-4 per cent on the preferred shares and 1 1-4 per cent on the common were declared.

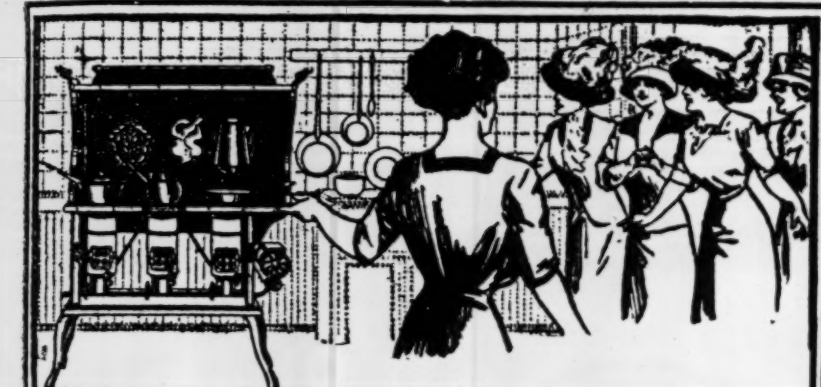

FIND UNKNOWN CAVE.

Fishermen Locate One in Connecticut Filled With Indian Relics.

Hartford, Conn., July 26.—Trout fishermen, who have been following the Farmington River through the Tunxis Valley here, have discovered a hitherto unknown cave along the river's bank. The cave is of immense proportions, spreading in several directions far beneath the earth. Partial exploration has revealed quantities of Indian relics which probably belonged to the extinct Tunxis tribe.

Further explorations of the cave has been temporarily prevented by the recent rains, which have raised the river until the entrance is flooded.

Fisher Goes to Alaska.

Special to Telegram.
Washington, July 26.—Secretary of the Interior Fisher will leave Chicago on August 22, on the first lap of his trip to Alaska, going there to gain first hand information of conditions there, and especially regarding the Controller Bay scandal.

Adjutant General Leinster's Father Dead.

Statesville, July 26.—Robert O. Leinster, one of the oldest residents of Statesville, and one of the best known citizens of the city, died Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at his home here. He had been in failing health for some time but only a few people knew that his condition was critical and the announcement of his death was quite a surprise. The funeral services and interment are expected to take place this afternoon.

Mr. Leinster was born in Philadelphia, Tenn., and would have been 69 years old in October. He has been a resident of Statesville since 1896. He served through the civil war as a soldier of the Confederacy; has an interesting war record and has since the war been prominent locally as a Confederate veteran. He is survived by his wife and seven children, viz: Adjutant General R. L. Leinster, of Raleigh; W. W. Leinster, who is Senator Simmon's private stenographer in Washington; Mesdames H. P. Grier and R. P. Mitchell and R. B. E. B. and A. M. Leinster, of Statesville.

For Defense of McNamara's.

Special to Telegram.
Washington, July 26.—An appeal for $500,000 to defend J. J. McNamara and his brother, labor men who are accused of dynamiting the Los Angeles Times building, has been issued by Secretary Morrison, who suggests that each of the two million labor men in the country contribute 25 cents.

Banana Split.

First have your bananas thoroughly chilled in refrigerator for several hours if possible. Remove the skin from a banana, leaving the skin whole, fill it with ice cream, pour some kind of fruit sirup or maple sugar sauce over the ice cream, lay two or three maraschino cherries on top of this if it is fruit sirup, or sprinkle nuts if it is maple sirup. Lay the peeled banana on same plate beside the ice cream if it is served in oblong plate, or slice and place the fruit around if served on a round plate. This serves one person.

Use for Cold Coffee.

If you have a cup of strong coffee left, from breakfast, prepare it with sugar and milk to taste. Put into a bowl one cup white flour, one cup whole wheat flour, one-half teaspoon salt and three level teaspoons baking powder. Beat one egg lightly, add to the coffee and stir into dry mixture. If it should be too stiff add a little more milk or water. It should be more like a stiff drop batter than dough and not thin enough to pour. Bake in hot buttered muffin pans 20 minutes.

Delicious Rice Waffles.

Three-quarters cup flour, two tablespoons sugar, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, one-quarter teaspoon salt. Sift thoroughly together. Into this work two-thirds cup cold cooked rice; use tips of fingers. Add 1¼ cups milk, one egg, one tablespoon melted butter.

Her Surroundings.

"You promised to keep me in luxurious surroundings if I would marry you."
"Well, you have a silk dress, haven't you?"

Suggestive.

"Was Jimmy Jinks angry at the result of his interview with Jenny Jaggs' father?"
"Well, he did say he felt quite put out."

There are two sides to an argument, but only one end.

FOR THE COOK TO TRY

RECIPES THAT OFFER AGREEABLE VARIETY FOR SUMMER.

Old Dominion Corn Bread Is Really Delicious—Mushroom Soup, Cheese Aligrettes and Ginger Cream Worth the Trouble.

Old Dominion Corn Bread—The night before take cup yellow cornmeal and half cup rice, put into a good sized bowl with a piece of butter the size of an egg, a pinch of salt and a tablespoon of sugar. Pour over this sufficient boiling water (be sure the water is boiling) to make the mixture a thick paste. Cover tightly and let stand till morning. In the morning prepare two pie tins for making. Then take a tea cup of sweet milk or cream and three well beaten eggs, add the milk to eggs and beat. Then dissolve two large teaspoons of baking powder in a little extra milk. Pour the milk and egg mixture into the cornmeal and beat well. Then add the baking powder dissolved in milk. Bake at once in a quick oven for 15 or 20 minutes. If the mixture is allowed to stand before baking, or if the oven is cool the egg will separate and form a custard on top, but if properly prepared this makes a corn bread without an equal. Should be eaten hot right from the oven.

Mushroom Soup—Quart of milk, pint mushrooms, two tablespoons butter, tablespoon flour, minced onion, salt and pepper to taste. Stew the mushrooms and onion with half cup of milk till tender, then mash and rub them through a colander. Pour this into the quart of milk and place over the fire in a double boiler. Cream the butter and flour together, and when the milk is at boiling point pour about a cup into the creamed flour and butter, stirring until smooth. Pour this into the boiling milk and stir until thick as cream. Add seasoning and serve with cubes of toast.

Cheese Aligrettes—Boil together half a cup of water and quarter cup of butter; sift into this half a cup of flour, a pinch of salt and seasoning of paprika; beat until the mass forms a ball. Let it cool a few moments; then break in three eggs and beat, one at a time. Add third of cup of grated cheese (Parmesan preferred), drop by teaspoon on greased pan or oiled paper, leaving a good space between each spoonful of mixture. Bake in a hot oven till light and puffy and well browned. Serve hot with butter.

Ginger Cream—Cut in small, thin pieces three ounces of preserved Canton ginger; put this in a bowl with three dessert spoons of the syrup and the well beaten yolk of four eggs and a pint of sweet cream. Mix these ingredients well together and then cook in a double boiler ten minutes or till thick. Then take from the fire and beat with a wire whisk until cool. Add two teaspoons of pulverized sugar and one ounce of gelatine, previously soaked in water to dissolve. Beat all together until thoroughly mixed; put in a mold and keep on ice or in cold water in a draught of air until serving time. This makes a very dainty and delicious dessert. Whipped cream piled about the mound adds to the appearance, but is not necessary.

No Sympathy There.

"You have kept my nose to the grindstone, Serepta," spoke her husband, nervously himself to say something at least, "for fifteen years!"
"I've done more than that, Volney," snapped Mrs. Vick-Senn; "I have made you turn the grindstone."

Squirrel Aeronautics.

Mr. Muskrat—Look! There goes Billie Frog in an airship.
Mr. Jack Rabbit—Yes, that flying squirrel is making a fortune renting himself out for an aeroplane.—Judge.

His Faulty Memory

Jimmy was developing into a veritable Ananias. He told untruths great and small. He told them at all times, on all occasions, whenever the least opportunity presented itself.

His teacher, Miss Gray, and his parents joined efforts to correct the growing evil. After some time of patient endeavor on their part, there was considerable improvement. But it was too much for Jimmy; he couldn't stand the strain, so he relapsed into his old habit. He was apparently incorrigible.

The situation reached a point one day where Miss Gray felt she must have help, so she wrote a note to Jimmy's father. She knew that the boy had a great deal of respect for his father, and she felt certain of good results—at least temporarily.

The next morning, when the pupils came trooping into the room, Beasley Lane stopped at the teacher's desk and wiggled her hand until Miss Gray asked her what she wanted.

"Now, teacher," she began in her thin, piping voice, "now, I seen Jimmy Wilson tear up your note in the schoolyard yesterday."

"Very well. Take your seat, Beasley."

Close on the little girl's heels came two boys. Both began talking at once.

"One at a time, please, boys. What is it, Henry?"

Thus addressed, Henry blurted out breathlessly: "Jim Wilson tore up the note you sent to his father yesterday."

"Oo, yes, ma'am, an' I seen him do it, too—right in the schoolyard," corroborated the other boy.

Scarcely had the boys left her desk when the next room teacher came in and whispered to Miss Gray that she had overheard some of her youngsters discussing how Jimmy Wilson tore up the note that Miss Gray had sent to his father. Miss Gray thanked her.

Jimmy himself was the last pupil to arrive. As he started down the aisle to his seat Miss Gray called him back. Instant obedience was one of Jimmy's virtues and it had served to pull him out of more than one scrape. He immediately walked to the teacher's desk.

"Where is the note your father sent to me in reply to the one I gave you to take to him yesterday?" she asked.

"He didn't give me no note," replied Jimmy.

"Why not?"

"Cause—cause we didn't have no ink at home."

"Why didn't he write it in pencil? That would have answered just as well!"

"Cause his pencil didn't have no point an'—an' he couldn't find no knife to sharpen it."

"What did your father say when he read the note?"

"He said I should be a good boy—an' do what you tell me to do."

"Is that all he said?" demanded Miss Gray.

"An'—an' he told me not to do what you don't tell me to do—an' work hard—an' learn my lessons good—an' get good marks—an'—an' never to tell no lies—"

"Taint so, teacher, 'cause I seen him tear up the note," interrupted a shrill voice from the rear of the room.

"I seen him, too."

"So did I."

"Me too."

"I saw him, too."

"All of us saw him."

This testimony came from various parts of the room.

"Order, class," called the teacher. "All those who saw James tear up the note I gave him to take to his father yesterday afternoon will please raise their hands."

"With one or two exceptions every pupil in the class raised a hand. Some of Jimmy's special enemies raised both hands. Jimmy surveyed the scene sullenly.

"James, are all those children telling the truth?" asked the teacher. James was silent.

"Answer me at once, James."

"Yes, ma'am," mumbled the boy.

"Then why did you tell me all those things your father was supposed to have said?"

The boy did not answer, and the teacher repeated the question a number of times. Jimmy was scrutinizing his finger nails very carefully. Suddenly his face lit up with an inspiration.

"Because," he replied, "I forgot I tore up the note."

Prehistoric Needle Factory.

Not so long ago much interest was awakened in England by the discovery of a prehistoric lake village near Glastonbury. The dwellings were placed on mounds of clay raised above the level of the water. The framework of a primitive loom was found under one mound and the number of broken bone needles and bone splinters discovered in another mound led the explorers to think that it may have been the site of an ancient needle factory.

Very few bones have been discovered, but among the interesting finds is a blue glass bead with a wavy dark line running around it. One of the mounds contains 200 tons of clay, all of which must have been dug from the surrounding hills and carried to the spot in boats.—Scientific American.

My Corns Don't Hurt a Bit

Tired, Ailing, Swollen, Smelly, Sweaty Feet, Corns, Callouses and Bunions, TIZ Cures Right Off.

Say good-by to your corns the very first time you use TIZ. You will never know you have a corn, bunion or callous, or sweaty, tired, swollen, aching feet any more. It's just Wonderful the way the pain vanishes. Rub the corn—hammer it with your fist if you wish—no more pain after TIZ than if there had never been a blemish on your feet. Doesn't that sound good to you? Doesn't it? Then read this.

"The corns on either of my toes were as large as the tablets you make to cure them. Today there is no sign of corns on either foot and no soreness. It's an up-to-date Godsend.—Sam. A. Hoover, Progress, N. C.

Just use TIZ. It's not like anything else for the purpose you ever heard of. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleans them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

WAYS OF SERVING CHEESE

Some Suggestions for the Housekeeper Who Wishes to Avoid Monotony.

The housekeeper who does not believe in monotony does not serve cheese in the same way two days in succession. A little planning will enable her to run three or four different kinds of cheese at the same time, keeping them all fresh by putting them in an airtight cold place.

As most cheeses spoil quickly it is well to buy in smaller portions, especially in warm weather. Some cheeses are so perishable that grocers will not handle them in summer, and they should not be bought unless to be eaten at once.

The same kind of cheese may be served in various forms. Take the popular cream cheese, probably more used than any other one make. If you pass it out in squares one day, the next mix it in balls sprinkled with parsley; again mix with chopped pimientos; or thin slightly with whipped cream, mix with chopped red peppers, and remold into a flat cake, which is passed whole.

Instead of serving bar-le-duc and cream cheese separately, stir together into a mixture about the consistency of creamed butter and sugar.

Fried cheese balls are delicious served with plain lettuce and French dressing. Mix into the cheese chopped parsley, a dash of cayenne, a pinch of salt, and two drops of onion juice. Mold into balls, dip in egg and bread crumbs, and fry in boiling lard before serving.

Another fried cheese with lettuce is made of the English or ordinary American cheese cut in strips like French fried potatoes. Dip these in seasoned egg and bread crumbs and fry in deep fat when ready for use.

IT GRATES ALL THE NUTMEG

New York Man's Invention Will Save Housewife From Grating Off Fingernails.

A nutmeg grater that grates all the nutmeg, down to the last scrap, has been designed by a New York man. It also saves the housewife from grating off her fingernails and the tips of her fingers. The grater proper is circular and is affixed to a wooden handle.

Pivoted to the center is a revolving handle resembling a miniature motor man's controller, with a little cup in one end to hold the kernel and a spring cap to keep it in place and press it against the grater plate. The nutmeg is placed in this cap and the handle turned until the desired amount is ground off, the operation being much speedier than when kernel has to be rubbed across the grater by hand. Furthermore, the hand method results in waste, as after the nutmeg has been ground so small that it cannot be scraped without scraping the fingers as well, it has heretofore had to be thrown away.

Sponge Cake.

Three eggs, a quarter of a pound of flour, four tablespoonfuls of sugar, grated rind of half a lemon. Sift the flour on to a piece of paper, add one teaspoonful of baking powder and sift again. Put the eggs into a basin and beat them for fully ten minutes, add the sugar and beat for twenty minutes. Stir in the flour, baking powder and lemon rind as lightly as possible. Butter a cake tin, then dust it over with flour. Pour the mixture into the prepared tin, and bake in a very moderate oven for about one hour. This mixture may be baked in small gem pans if preferred.

Premonitory Symptoms

Atkinson glanced at his sister Dorothy in surprise. Somehow she looked different. It had never occurred to him before that she was a beauty, but this Sunday morning as she poured his coffee it suddenly struck him that she was much better looking than most young women.

The coffee was bad—undeniably muddy. He tasted it and set down his cup in ill disguised disgust to which Dorothy appeared strangely and anxiously oblivious.

"What's the matter with the coffee, Dorothy?" he asked in arieved tone. "It's the first poor coffee we've had since you began keeping house for me."

"Oh, isn't it good, Tom? I must have forgotten something. Yes, I remember now—I didn't put in any egg. I'm sorry."

"It doesn't matter this time." Atkinson meant to be very indulgent and kind to the little sister who had come to the city to make a home for him. "In future, Dorothy, be more careful."

"Yes, I will. I am trying to become an excellent housekeeper. You know I'm getting really splendid marks at the cooking school. Is the omelet all right?"

"Pardon my mentioning it, but it's—well, it's simply atrocious! It's sweet and terribly greasy."

"Sweet and greasy? Oh, I know what I did. You see, I thought I'd stir up a cake for dinner and I began it while I was getting breakfast. I do believe that after I worked together the sugar and butter for the cake I put them into this omelet! I hope it isn't so very dreadfully horrid."

"No, my child, it's only horrid enough to be inedible."

His cutting reply appeared to pass over Dorothy's head. She sat smiling dreamily and nibbling a lump of cut loaf sugar.

"Aren't you going to eat any breakfast?" her brother asked impatiently. "The toast is all right."

"Yes, of course, I forgot. I'm not really very hungry, you know." She took a piece of toast, and, picking up her butter spreader, slowly covered it with some of the omelette. Atkinson watched the proceeding with fascinated eyes.

"Are you going to eat that mess?" he asked.

Dorothy looked down at the toast and laughed foolishly. "I wasn't thinking what I was doing," she said.

"Aren't you well? It seems idle to ask, for I never saw you looking better in your life."

"I never felt better in my life," said Dorothy.

As Atkinson looked into her glowing face he said to himself that it was too bad pretty young girls were nearly always rattle brained. Then conscience smote him, for he remembered that in all the three months Dorothy had been keeping house for him this was really her first failure in the way of a meal.

"Did a pair of shoes come for me yesterday?" he asked. "I bought some patent leathers."

"Why, no. I don't think so, Tom. I didn't see any patent leathers."

"That's funny. The men promised that they would be delivered last night."

"I remember now. A package did come about 9 o'clock in the evening. I wonder what I did with it. Oh, yes, I remember. I put it on the ice."

"On the ice! Patent leathers on the ice!"

"Well, Tom, I didn't know what was in the box."

"No, of course not. No one would ever suspect that shoes could possibly be in a shoe box! My dear, if I have cold feet on any proposition today it will be your fault."

Atkinson laughed at his own wit, but his sister's answering smile was a little tremulous.

"I'm sorry I'm such a goose, Tom. You seem to think it's funny for me to do a silly thing like that. But I don't wish to be amusing in that fashion. I wish to be a wise, sensible woman, who can manage a home well."

"Hurrah for you, Dorothy! I see there's hope for my declining years if I'm to have such a housekeeper as you intend to be."

"But, Tom, there's something I have to tell you. I'm afraid I won't be your housekeeper. Last night I received a letter from Jack Lindsey—and he—well, he says now that I've been away all these long months and learned to cook and everything, he thinks it would be—well, it would be nice for me to come home and marry him."

"Say, I like that fellow's nerve. You tell him to—"

"But, Tom, I want to go home—and do what he says. I always meant to—some time."

"But where does the old bachelor brother come in? You've just been practicing on him, eh?"

Atkinson rose from the table and drew his sister into his arms. "I might have known something was up, dear," he said, after giving her a kiss, "when I took that first taste of alluvial coffee."

Misunderstanding.

The man was walking along reading the signs. Coming to a garage, he saw this one: "Rubber tires." He studied it for a moment and then was heard to say:

"Well, when it comes to heels, I don't think it does as much as leather."

Stanley's Picnic and Reunion of Veterans.

Stanley, July 26.—Two senatorial candidates, an industrial parade a game of baseball between two good teams, a parade of Confederate veterans, and a Wild West aggregation constitute a few of the features which will combine to make Stanley the centre of the county Thursday. In addition here will be the regulation red lemonade, peanuts, cold drinks, ice cream and picnic refreshments of various kinds.

The occasion is Stanley's annual picnic and old soldier's reunion. In recent years this has come to be one of the chief pleasure events of the summer in Gaston and several thousand people take advantage of the opportunity to enjoy a day's outing and rest. The management expects something like 10,000 to attend this year. Both Senator Simmons and Judge Walter Clark, of the State Supreme Court, who is one of the four candidates for the United States Senate, have promised to be on hand and make addresses.

Other features of the program will be a parade participated in by the business houses of the town, which will be represented by many attractive floats, and by the Confederate veterans.

Mrs. Tisinger's Condition Improved.

The friends of Mrs. Tisinger, formerly Miss Mattie McCullen, of this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan McClen, who have been called to the bedside, will be interested in the following from the Daily Journal, of Eufrata, Ala.:

"Mrs. L. F. Tisinger, whose critical illness caused so much anxiety among her legion of warm friends in the city Monday, is regarded by her attending physician as improving. Although it was deemed best to telegraph her immediate relatives in Greensboro, N. C., to attend her bedside, it is now believed that her symptoms are yielding to treatment and hopes of her permanent recovery are entertained. Perhaps no resident of the city occupies a warmer place in the affections of the city at large, and the hundreds of anxious inquiries that were flashed over the city during the alarming period of her illness is convincing proof of the high esteem in which she is held. She is regarded by all who know her as a reigning queen in social realms, and is indeed one of the most beautiful and charming of her sex. Mrs. A. W. Van Hoose and Mrs. Rucker, relatives of her husband, have been in constant attendance at her bedside during the week."

"The best skin specialists told me that nothing would remove my freckles and that I would carry them to my grave," said a well known society woman, "but I fooled them all with new drug, ointment—double strength, that I bought at Howard Gardner's which completely cleared my skin and gave me a fine complexion."

The action of ointment is really remarkable, for when applied at night, many of the freckles disappear entirely by morning, and the rest have begun to fade. An ounce is usually all that is needed, even for the worst case.

Be sure to ask Howard Gardner for the double strength ointment, as this is sold under a guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles.

Pellers to Gather in Family Conclave at Crescent, N. C.

Rev. and Mrs. Shuford Peeler are planning to attend a reunion of the Peeler family at Crescent, N. C., on August 24. Regarding the reunion the China Grove Record has the following: It is a rather general custom now for families of wide connection to assemble at stated times to honor the family name, enlarge acquaintance, intensify friendship and strengthen the sacred ties which bind them together.

Heretofore no effort has been made to have the many members of the Peeler tribe come together. But surely the number of them in Rowan county justifies such an occasion and many desire it. No Peeler in this section of North Carolina should be absent on that day. We want to see how many we can actually get together. Send a card to Peeler ers far and near so every one will know of it. Rev. Sam Peeler of Winston-Salem is arranging for a number of short but appropriate speeches. Music will also be in evidence.

Every one who is a Peeler now; every one who has ever been a Peeler, together with their families; and for the pleasure of the young ladies and gentlemen of Peeler connection each lady may bring a special friend who might like to get a Peeler and each young man may bring a special lady friend who might like to become a Peeler.

Make no other arrangement for August the 24th. Ladies, do your best cooking for that day so we may have a truly pleasant day physically, socially and fraternally. Arrange now to be here.

A. S. P.

A woman's idea of a good time does not run to regrets the next morning.

PATRIOTS MADE IT THREE STRAIGHTS FROM CHARLOTTE

Took Yesterday's Game by Easy Score of 4 to 1.

Three straights from Charlotte and six consecutive victories, is the record that was completed yesterday afternoon, when Doyle's men defeated the followers of the Cross by a score of 4 to 1. Rube Eldridge was on the knoll for the locals, pitched a good game and deserved to win, but the playing of the Hornets was so poor that it made the game far less interesting than it should have been. The game should have come Greensboro's way by a score of about 2 to 1. Hankie did the twirling for the visitors and kept the hits scattered, but two of his wild pitches were responsible for two of the locals' runs.

The game was featured by the good fielding of the Patriots, especially Carroll and Doyle, the timely batting of Clapp and Lowman and the base running of Rickard. Rickard again got his two bases on balls and a hit and made two of Greensboro's runs.

The first frame was the occasion of the first run, when Rickard walked, and Doyle got an infield hit. Fuller sacrificed the two to third and second. Rickard scored on Hankie's wild pitch. In the second Lowman led off with a single. Carroll attempted another bunt, but Lowman was wise enough not to run as Carroll popped out to Garman. Stuart hit to short stop, who let the ball go by. McMillan got the ball and threw wild to third to catch Lowman, who scored before the ball was rescued from the bleachers. In the fifth Eldridge led off with a double. Rickard hit to Hankie who ran after Ware between second and third. After some juggling Rickard pulled up safely on second and Ware, who was running for Eldridge, was out. Rickard went to third on a wild pitch, and scored on Doyle's sacrifice fly to center. The last run was made by Clapp on a three-bagger and Lowman's single.

Charlotte's sole run was made in the seventh on singles by Wofford, Coutts and Ryan, assisted by a wild pitch of Eldridge's.

ANDERSON TOOK ANOTHER GAME FROM SPARTANBURG

Spartanburg, S. C., July 26.—Wolfe was the best slab artist of the game this afternoon and deserved to win. The base-running of the locals seemingly took the game from him in the ninth, when Ferrell went up and five scores resulted. The bases were full with only one out and one score, when Laval took the box from Ferrell but he was unable to prevent the runs. The locals fielded well and only the hitting of the visitors kept their errors from counting considerably.

Score by innings:

Anderson..... 020 000 005-7 14 4
Spartanburg..... 001 100 200-4 4 1
Batteries—Wolfe and Brannon; Ferrell, Laval and Ochs. Umpire, Obrien.

GREENVILLE'S NEW TWIRLER TOOK GAME FROM TWINS

Greenville, S. C., July 26.—Watson won his first game in organized ball when he gave a try out by Manager Stouch, of the Spinners. Winston also had a pitcher new to this league, from Baltimore. Only one run made by the visitors was earned while all those of the locals resulted from hits. In the seventh, two hits, a sacrifice and a base on balls were followed by a tremendous drive to center by Outfielder Cashion for three sacks. Watson kept his hits exceptionally scattered and kept his head. He shows up very promisingly.

Score:

GAS IGNITION NOT THE CAUSE OF TUESDAY'S FIRE.

Building Inspector Milton when seen yesterday regarding the fire on Tuesday which partially destroyed the apartment dwelling owned by John W. King on North Davis street, stated that after a thorough investigation he could find no cause from which the blaze might have originated. It was stated in The Telegram yesterday morning that it was presumed to have started from ignition of escaping gas. Mr. Milton says that this was not possible, for had there been enough gas to have caused the fire to start an explosion would have followed as a matter of course. In his report to the State Insurance Commissioner he states that the cause is unknown.

DIAMOND DUST

Where They Play Today.

Greensboro at Spartanburg.

Charlotte at Winston.

Greenville at Anderson.

Good morning, Clancy.

Hurrah for Pitcher Watson.

Somebody's bonus is slipping.

Much obliged to you, Mr. Cross.

Our thanks to you also, Mr. Tommy Stouch.

Order for the flag-pole has been irrevocably cancelled.

Today the Patriots open a series of three games at Spartanburg.

Any day's games now may change places between the Patriots and Twins.

If Coffin is ever found and brought back, he will hardly be able to write any more dope.

The Twins must have been feeding on that swill of Coffin's, for as soon as he shut off the team began to lose.

Ryan, who caught the last two games for Charlotte, was the man who caught for Greensboro in the Carolina-Virginia League in 1904.

Clancy tried his Scotch-Irish named Baltimore pitcher for the first time yesterday. Judging from the results, we will want McOleary to pitch often.

We do not believe Charlotte will go a whole week without winning at least two games. To get two this week they must be taken, at the expense of Winston.

We are counting upon "Deacon" Morrisey and Sheesley to put the Patriots in first place this afternoon. If they will, we'll do our best to hold on to it and help the other fellows off.

There is only eight points difference between the teams of Greensboro and Winston this morning. This is a gain of about 50 points in one week—a gain that is almost unprecedented in this league. The Patriots are in better shape than ever.

Doyle's men will play in Spartanburg the rest of this week. Next week's program is as follows: Monday and Tuesday we play in Anderson; Wednesday and Thursday Spartanburg will be here; Friday and Saturday Greensboro will be in Winston.

The results of the past week have been accomplished by consistent, steady pitching and good team work, coupled with opportune hitting. Greensboro has a good run getting combination at each end of the batting list. When one end finds a pitcher that is difficult to solve, the other jumps on him.

Clashes At Lorimer Hearing.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 26.—Clash after clash between witness and attorney occurred again in the Senate Lorimer committee hearing during the cross-examination of James Keeley, general manager of the Chicago Tribune, by Lorimer's counsel. The proceedings largely centered around the publication of so-called confession of Representative Chas. A. White, of the Illinois legislature.
